- Much More: 37.9%

“You have to go into it knowing that you might have a different goal…so you need to be able to reach a middle point that benefits both parties. When you are dealing with clients, you are representing a brand and need to be able to build rapport.”

Interpersonal Skills and Diplomacy
- More: 38.5%
- Much More: 41.5%

“If you don’t like that person, you still have to work with them, at least this was just a simulation but now there is money involved.”

Decision Making
- More: 42.4%
- Much More: 36.4%

“We came out with a press release, the ruling coalition answered right away with another super aggressive press release and we had to answer back right away. So, it was quite realistic… it wasn’t just a unit anymore.”

Coalition Building
- More: 40.0%
- Much More: 38.5%

“You don’t only work with people within your group but also outside your group. So that will affect your whole overall progress. There is a need to maintain a good relationship with everyone you are working with even if it was from different teams.”

This is an unparalleled opportunity to put your research, negotiation, and problem solving skills to the test in a fast-paced international crisis simulation.

Use your team’s knowledge of global politics and the media to manage the crisis and achieve your objectives.
